Solution Expected In Chest-Central Labor Union Dispute

Groups Meet To Discuss Settlement

CHANCES FOR A "workable solution" to the Central Labor Union-YMCA-Community Chest controversy seemed better last night.

Representatives of the Central Labor Union and the Chest met to discuss the controversy.

After two and one-half hours discussion both groups appeared hopeful that some solution might be reached.

Central Labor Union executive committee will meet on Monday, Sept. 27 to "try to further the preliminary conclusion" reached at last night's meeting. John Farley, president of the union group said.

The Monday meeting is to be held to give the executive committee an opportunity to prepare a summary for presentation to the full Central Labor Union at its regular Oct. 3 meeting, Farley said.

In announcing the proposed meeting and expressing belief that a solution may be forthcoming, Farley also asked that one point be emphasized concerning the union's attitude toward the Community Chest.

"The Central Labor Union is not antagonistic toward the Community Chest as a whole," Farley said. "The union's objection to the Chest drive for funds is centered on participation in the Chest of the YMCA. The local plumber's union and its business agent have been involved in a lengthy dispute with one of the sub-contractors on the new Y building in Stroudsburg."

In declaring its decision to "abstain from supporting the Chest," the Central Labor Union said it was basing its action on the "anti-union" attitude of the YMCA board of directors.

Following last night's discussion, Chest President Elton Hall, who headed the Chest delegation, said the Chest would be ready to meet with the Central Labor Union board at any time to continue discussion of the matter.

The Chest's 1954 campaign will be officially inaugurated next Monday night at the Penn-Stroud Hotel with the annual "kick-off" dinner donated by hotel owner Gerald P. O'Neill.

All solicitation divisions in the Chest are slated to go into full operation next week. One division for resorts — began solicitation in August.

New Approach Aim Of CIO Steelworkers

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J., Sept. 20 (AP)—The United Steel Workers of America, already cool toward their parent CIO, today heard their president criticize present trade unionism and call for a major new approach.

But President David J. McDonald stopped short of telling the biennial USW convention just how he stands on whether the giant union should get out of the CIO, as it has been reported the USW might do.

He told the 3,000 delegates that he would discuss later in the week the steelworkers' "relations in the organized labor movement."

However, McDonald said the 1-200,000-member union must seek a third course in the trade union movement from what he called the present two approaches.

This course he termed "mutual trustfulness" in which the union and industry would work together. Both, he added, are trustees of the steelmaking industry and are responsible for mutually profitable production.

"I firmly believe that we must constantly change our approach to problems," the union chief said. "We never have and we never will accept the status quo."

To accept the status quo is to fall "by the wayside," he said.

AFL Accused Of Unfair Opposition

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 20 (AP)—Secretary of Labor James P. Mitchell today accused the American Federation of Labor, face to face, of unfair political opposition to the Eisenhower administration.

Mitchell bluntly told delegates to the 16-million-member labor organization's annual convention that the AFL would make more progress in achieving its aims if it were not so unyieldingly critical of the GOP.

President Eisenhower's labor secretary said in remarks prepared for the convention's afternoon session that he agreed with the political philosophy of the AFL's late founder, Samuel Gompers, that labor should "reward its friends and oppose its enemies."

"It is difficult to see, however," Mitchell said, "how that philosophy is being applied when criticism of an administration is all encompassing and takes no note of its intentions or accomplishments."

"In the past 20 months we have accomplished much for the working men and women of America and I can pledge to you that we will continue to do so."

"But I would like to suggest to you that if we were as confident of your support when we do right as we are of your criticism when we do wrong, we would be even more effective on your behalf."

AFL President George Meany, in a keynote address this morning opening the convention, seemed to anticipate Mitchell's charge of political bias against the GOP by asserting that the AFL was tied to neither major party.

"We are not going to be the tail to the Democratic kite or the Republican kite," Meany said.

U. S. Accepts Invitation To Nine-Power Meet

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20 (AP)—The United States agreed today to join eight other nations in a discussion next week of German rearmament, a key to plans for erecting anti-Communist defenses in Western Europe.

The government accepted formally an invitation sent out by Britain for a conference which will be held on Sept. 28.

Mass X-Ray Held Inadequate In Fight On Lung Cancer

By FRANK CAREY
AP Science Reporter
WASHINGTON, Sept. 20 (AP)—A San Francisco doctor said today that mass X-ray is the best available method for spotting lung cancer in the general population but it is far from good enough.

"If a significant attack is to be made on the lung cancer problem, a more effective method of detection on a mass basis among apparently healthy people will have to be found," said Dr. L. Henry Garland, himself an X-ray specialist.

The doctor suggested that research be pushed to develop some "biochemical" or other method—possibly including some kind of blood test—as a means of detecting lung cancer on a more sure basis among the general public.

ROBERT S. Kintner, top executive of the American Broadcasting Co. and only surviving Pennsylvania Ambassador of the Pocono Mountains will be here for a big Pennsylvania Week banquet during the week of Oct. 10-17.

Mr. Kintner has accepted an invitation from the Pennsylvania Week Committee to attend the banquet, probably due to be held on Thursday, Oct. 14.

Details of the banquet and accompanying entertainment will be announced later.

The only other Pennsylvania Ambassador to be named from the Poconos was the late J. J. Newberry, then chairman of the board of J. J. Newberry Co.

Report on Mr. Kintner's acceptance of the invitation was announced yesterday at the meeting of the board of directors of Poconon Mountains Chamber of Commerce.

At the same time it was announced that Sen. Montgomery F. Crowe, chairman of the Chamber's industrial committee and Monroe Industries, Inc., will act as chairman of Pennsylvania Week in the Poconos this year.

One of the other major events of the week will be an elaborate industrial show to be staged in the Penn Stroud Hotel garage where facilities were found to be excellent when the Pocono Mountains hotel show was held there last Spring.

Harold Swenson, executive secretary of the Chamber is county coordinator for Pennsylvania Week. He submitted to directors a list of all industrial firms now functioning in every section of the county.

Development of the industrial show will be pressed during the next few weeks.

Chile Decrees Emergency To Thwart Reds

SANTIAGO, Chile, Sept. 20 (AP)—The Chilean government declared a state of siege (modified martial law) throughout most of the country today. President Carlos Ibanez said it was evident Communist elements planned to carry out a program of violence.

The government apparently made up its mind to grasp additional powers, despite objections by the opposition in Congress, when a group of demonstrators at the northern Chilean copper town of Potrerillos, ripped down the Chilean flag this morning, shouting:

"We are Communists, not Chileans."

Caches of dynamite were reported found later at the mine, run by a subsidiary of the American-owned Anaconda Copper Mining Co.

The Communist party is outlawed in Chile.

The government's move was a surprise since labor troubles in the copper fields which have crippled the country's economy for about a month appeared nearing a settlement. About 6,500 strikers at the El Teniente mine of the Braden Copper Co., a subsidiary of the U.S.-owned Kennecott Copper Co., returned to work today after a month-long walkout. However, 4,500 miners at Potrerillos, who went out in sympathy with the El Teniente strikers, and 2,500 more at Chuquibambilla were still out.

Schools Plan New Jointure In Slate Belt

EAST BANGOR — A new four-district jointure loomed on the Slate Belt's troubled education horizon last night.

Upper Mount Bethel, Portland, East Bangor and Washington Township school boards met here and agreed to form a jointure of grades one through 12.

To do so, the boards said, it will be necessary to erect a joint junior-senior high school at an estimated cost of from $900,000 to $1 million.

At the meeting, directors from all four districts expressed confidence they could undergo the jointure, and the building program, with "no appreciable increase in taxes."

The junior-senior high school would be constructed with 25 classrooms to house approximately 700 pupils with expansion facilities to accommodate an estimated 160 more students.

According to the preliminary agreement worked out last night, Lower Mount Bethel would not be included in the jointure. Directors indicated, however, that "the door would be left open if the district wanted to be included."

Estimates of each district's share in the cost of building were reported at the meeting. According to the report the districts would pay these percentage-shares of the total cost: Washington Township—32.39 per cent; Upper Mount Bethel—47.8 per cent; East Bangor—11.37 per cent and Portland—8.44 per cent.

New Yorkers Qualify To Meet Tribe

BROOKLYN, Sept. 20 (AP)—The New York Giants buried Brooklyn tonight and danced a jig on the grave to celebrate the clinching of the National League pennant in the park where they're loved least—Ebbets Field. Sal Maglie presided with a five hitter while his mates whooped it up with a 7-1 victory.

It was fitting that the 37-year-old "Barber" with the long sideburns was the man to nail down the Giants' 15th flag. Maglie shouldered the heavy burden throughout the season, pitching the games that had to be won, facing the toughest clubs in the roughest situations.

And it also was fitting that the Giants marched into a rich World Series date with Cleveland over the prostrate form of the Dodgers, the team that was supposed to wait to its third straight pennant.

Willie Mays, the Giants' sensational centerfielder whose return from the Army last spring ignited the ball club, finally caught up with Duke Snider and took over the league batting lead with three hits for a .344 average.

Special Probe Of Housing Fraud Ordered

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20 (AP)—Atty. Gen. Brownell today announced that a special grand jury in Washington will investigate possible "bribery and other criminal conduct in the federal housing program."

He also disclosed plans for nationwide action, saying:

"Warren Olney III, head of the Department of Justice's criminal division, will this week call upon U.S. attorneys in all other districts of the nation to present to grand juries as soon as material is available full testimony concerning criminal conduct uncovered by the administration's investigation in their districts."

Brownell's action was the latest chapter in the unfolding story of how many promoters and others pocketed huge profits on rental housing under the Federal Housing Administration.

The usual procedure in the questioned cases was to skim off "windfall profits" from FHA-insured loans that exceeded the actual cost of the housing projects.

Investigators, congressional and executive, have reported that graft and corruption figured in some flagrant cases. One specific program under attack, called "Section 608," expired in 1950.

Brownell tossed some bricks at the Truman administration in his announcement, saying of the FHA:

"The huge federal agency upon which the nation depended for stimulating home building and housing construction became riddled with corruption under the prior administration."

The state attorney general's office called it "the largest fraud case in 15 years."

Atty. Gen. Nathaniel L. Goldstein said the promoters watered their stock and boosted its value up to 600 per cent by picturing the bulk of the funds in drilling where they said they would.

Goldstein told a news conference: "The Canadian government indicates that to date there has been no commercial production of oil in the Gaspé Peninsula, although drilling has gone on for almost 100 years."

More than 10,000 investors—including 8,000 in New York—were suckered into the deal, Goldstein claimed.

The millions they invested, the attorney general said, mainly went to further the private ventures of Paul Payette of Montreal, chief promoter of the stock deal. In the end, his Gaspé Oil Ventures Ltd., showed assets of only $1,300, despite the stream of American investment capital.

"It is alleged they spent only a small part of the funds in drilling where they said they would," Goldstein continued. "Actually, the bulk of the money was spent for different purposes, including the drilling of wells on the land of other companies in which Payette had a personal interest."

Speeding Express Derailed After Hitting Gravel Truck; One Man Killed, 28 Injured

MATTOON, Ill., Sept. 20 (AP)—A speeding New York Central streamliner smashed into a gravel truck and careened from the rails today, killing one person and injuring 28.

The Southwestern Limited's second diesel unit first left the track, following nine cars lurched crazily to their sides and came to a screeching halt 200 yards beyond the crossing. Two other cars remained upright.

Hours after the wreck, a spokesman at Memorial Hospital said three of the injured would remain overnight. One, A. L. Yantis, Shelbyville, Ill., was described in serious condition.

Passengers related stories of calm, cool-headed behavior, and lauded efforts of one another to aid the injured or briefly trapped in crippled cars.

The derailed cars, snaking down the right of way, sheared off power and telephone poles.

The crash smashed windows, accounting for cuts suffered by some riders, but the overturned cars did not splinter. Rescue crews said this undoubtedly saved many lives.

The New York bound train carrying an estimated 95 passengers plowed into the truck at Monroe Crossing—a point where the train normally hits a speed of 70 miles an hour. The train minutes before had stopped at Mattoon, five miles west.

The truck driver, Gary Bryant, 24, of Mattoon, was killed instantly.

Would Permit Rearming Of West Germany

STRASBOURG, France, Sept. 20 (AP)—French Premier Pierre Mendes-France today outlined plans for a treaty to rearm West Germany in Western defense which he said could be signed and ratified before the year's end.

The plan, which Mendes-France outlined to the European Consultative Assembly here, would tie West Germany in a tight European alliance including Britain before there is any step to add rearmament to NATO's ranks.

The preliminary alliance would include Britain, West Germany, France, Italy, Belgium, the Netherlands and Luxembourg at least. Once it is formed, the Premier said, France would be less hostile to German entry into the 14-nation NATO.

He has never said he would veto West Germany's admission to the NATO pact that binds the United States to Western Europe's defenses, he declared.

The main points of Mendes-France's plan to plug the breach left by the French-killed EDC unified army proposal are:

1. Any pact calling on West Germany and France to unite to provide troops for common defense must include Britain as a full partner. The basis for the new alliance would be the 1948 Brussels pact.

2. Top limits would be fixed on fighting forces of West Germany and other members of the alliance.

3. Construction of arms factories and arms production would be strictly supervised and controlled.

4. The new alliance would be tied closely to NATO. Mendes-France said this would reduce French resistance to West Germany's entry into NATO.

5. Quick drafting of a treaty of only 20 to 25 articles to carry out the plan. The Premier predicted the job could be done within a month, with the member countries ratifying the treaty before the end of this year.

The French premier emphasized the new alliance would not replace NATO as a military organization but would cooperate with it closely.

He said the French "want to put the European machine back on the rails," and emphasized that "none of us can keep our military security up to its proper level without the help of the United States."

Statement Attributed To Graver

WILKES-BARRE, Pa., Sept. 20 (AP)—Jack Nethoff, a tavern operator at Harvey's Lake, testified today that Paul Graver, on trial for the murder of Dorothy Gilhoof, told him the dead woman "never left her building alive."

Nethoff told the Luzerne County Court the defendant made the statement last Dec. 19, the day after the woman's body was found wedged against a four-foot retaining wall a short distance from the cafe.

The prosecution has maintained Graver struck the woman in his room and that hours later he carried her still conscious body to the lake front in subfreezing temperatures. A number of witnesses have told of a drinking party the night before Mrs. Gilhoof disappeared at which she and Graver quarreled over attentions paid her by another man at the tavern.

Mrs. Gilhoof was reported to have followed Graver to his room to apologize to him because he was "mad at me."

Pathologists and other Commonwealth witnesses have established the woman died of a cerebral hemorrhage caused by a head wound. Blood found near where the body was discovered was matched with blood in Graver's room.

Nethoff said Graver's remark was made while police were in the midst of their probe of the murder and the day after the body was found. He said he never had an opportunity later to ask Graver what he meant by the remark.

French Plan Means Delay, Perils Defense

By J. M. ROBERTS JR.
Associated Press News Analyst

The latest French pronouncement on European defense raises the question of whether she intends to make it the basis for concrete action or whether it will merely produce another long delay for those who are anxious to see West Germany rearm.

Other interested governments, particularly the United States and Britain, had not had time to make complete studies of the proposals, delivered over the weekend, when Premier Mendes-France made his central theme public in an address to the Council of Europe.

Fundamentally, Mendes-France seems to be accepting in a general way the idea carried to Europe last week by Foreign Minister Eden of Britain that the 1948 Brussels Treaty should be enlarged and amended to include Germany, whose rearmament would then come under the North Atlantic Treaty controls.

Mendes-France, in an effort to get around the Anglo-American-German contention that West Germany must participate as a full and autonomous partner, would clothe the rejuvenated Brussels agreement with powers to limit the arms of all on an equal basis. Thus he thinks, would meet French fears of a rearmament Germany getting out of control.

He seems to be willing to give up, in a civilian council which would govern such an arrangement, the veto which he sought to insert into the European Defense Community plan before the French Parliament killed it.

But he also wishes to rejuvenate the economic and social clauses of the Brussels treaty which have never meant anything, and strengthen them so that the new treaty would cover the logistics of the alliance.

In this connection, he referred to what he called the necessity that France be made strong economically before she could go the whole way with Germany.

This has been one of the major points around which French policy has revolved ever since the war, and was a prime objective in development of the international coal and steel pool under the Schuman plan. The guns of World War II were hardly cool when France decided that she must never again let Germany get ahead of her in the production of the sinews of war.

Mendes-France said Monday that France could accept Germany as a member of new Brussels pact, into the North Atlantic Treaty Organization if his military and economic suggestions were accepted.

This immediately raised the question of whether he thinks French economic rehabilitation—for which he has been given broad powers by the French Parliament and in which he obviously expects direct cooperation from the United States and the other defense partners—must take place before Ger-

Decision Due Shortly On Sen. McCarthy

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20 (AP)—The special Senate committee investigating misconduct charges against Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.) inched slowly today toward agreement on a "verdict."

Its pace stirred doubts that it could complete the job this week as some members had predicted earlier. The committee, headed by Sen. Watkins (R-Utah), completed one week ago its public hearings on a censure resolution and 48 partially overlapping charges leveled at McCarthy by three fellow senators.

The Senate, before adjourning last month, agreed to return to consider the committee findings.

In nine days of hearings the committee took testimony on 13 charges, divided into five general groupings, but Watkins said the completed report will deal with all 48.

Members of his committee said privately there was no discord among them but that writing their report is taking more time than some of them had expected. One committee source said it looks now as if the report will not be ready before next Monday.

The timing of the report may

Bonin Calls For Investigation Of Hiring At Tobyhanna Depot

Congressman Advised Of Irregularities

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20 (AP)—Rep. Edward J. Bonin (R-Pa.) today called for a congressional investigation of "widespread irregularities" in the employment of civilian personnel at the Tobyhanna, Pa. Army Signal Corps Depot.

In a letter to chairman Hagen (R-Minn.) of the House Subcommittee on Federal Civil Service, Bonin said he had been told there were many instances of payments for jobs, placing unqualified personnel in responsible positions and hiring out-of-turn from Civil Service registers.

Bonin said that although the Army and the Civil Service Commission have conducted separate inquiries, nothing concrete has been done by the administrative agencies to correct the situation.

Bonin told Hagen that he felt that the situation is serious enough to merit a congressional study by his subcommittee as soon as possible. He suggested that it might be made in conjunction with another inspection by the Civil Service Commission planned within the next two months.

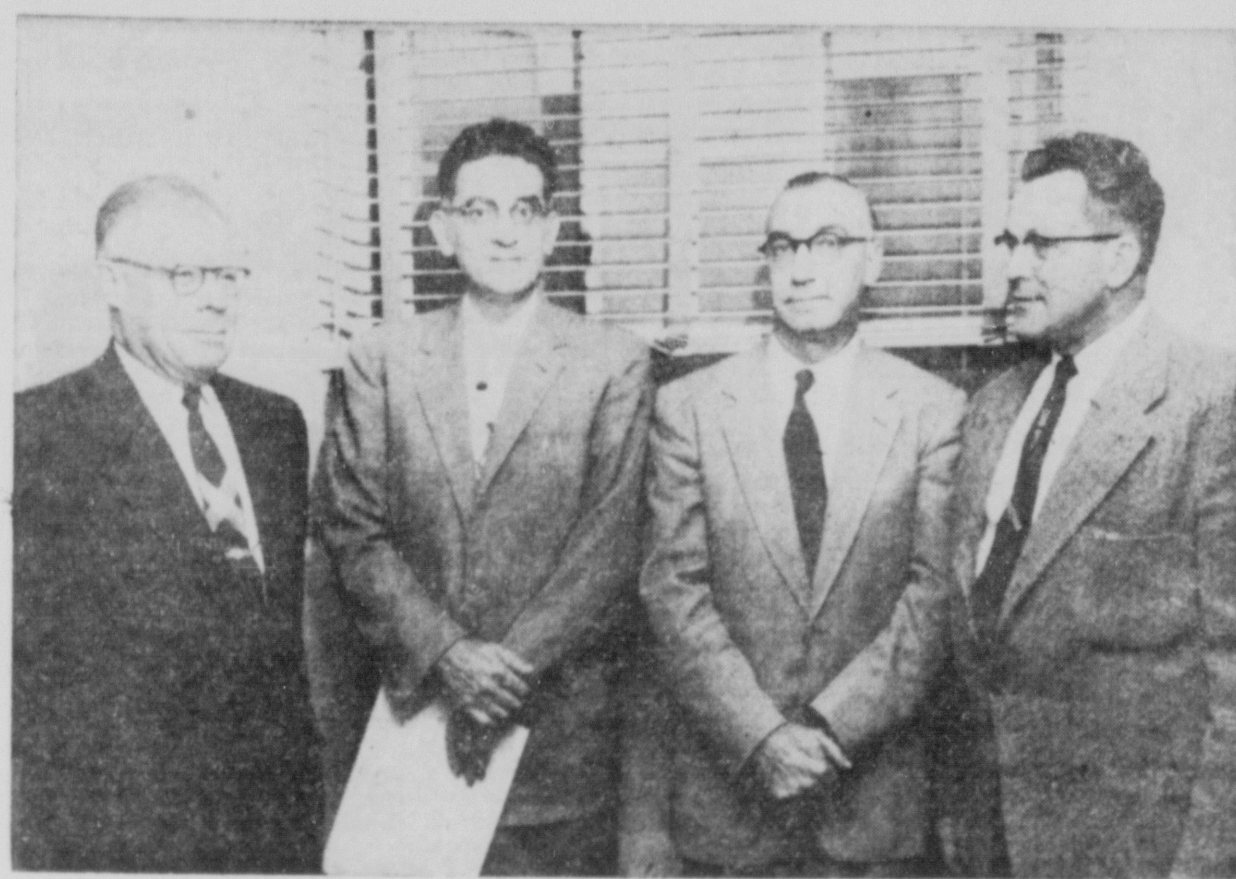

Bonin said he would like to know why the commanding officer of the depot, Col. William M. Mack, assigned to the depot in February, 1953, was transferred to Washington on special assignment May 10, 1954.

Bonin, a Hazleton Republican, represents Luzerne County.

(The Daily Record editorially opposed the transfer of Col. Mack from Tobyhanna several months before official announcement of the move was made by the Army.)

He said he had evidence that employment practices at the installation differ from the stated policy. For example, he said, the policy calls for competitive hiring, while certain positions have been filled on a non-competitive basis.

Bonin sent copies of his request for an investigation to chairman Rees (R-Ian.) and all Republican members of the House Civil Service and Post Office Committee.

Fire Occurs During Unit's Weekly Drill

DELAWARE WATER GAP — A realistic fire drill last night had this community as excited as if it were a real fire. It was a real fire, with an old shanty on Oak St. set afire and sending up great columns of smoke and flame.

The shanty, built by WPA labor, had been used by borough road workers for storage of equipment. The hose company got a real workout and the community had an after-dinner time of excitement.

Fire Chief Fred Decker said the fire occurred about 7:30 during the weekly drill of the fire company. The loss was not great, Decker added.

Peiping Charges 74 'Massacred'

TOKYO, Tuesday, Sept. 21 (AP)—Peiping Radio charged today that French troops killed 74 Indo-Chinese civilians and wounded 56 "in a massacre" in two villages of south central Viet Nam earlier this month.

"This monstrous violation of the armistice agreement took place in the area from which the Viet Nam People's Forces (Communists) had just pulled out," a broadcast heard in Tokyo asserted.

Assessment Deadline Recalled

A SCHOOL BOARD expert expressed fear last night that county commissioners may try to extend their deadline for setting up the assessment equalization program at the 1955 session of the legislature.

Speaking before the 50th annual Monroe County School Directors convention at county courthouse, Preston O. Van Ness, executive secretary of the State School Directors Association reminded local boards that the deadline is Jan. 1, 1956.

So far, Van Ness said, only 26 counties in Pennsylvania have started to do the job. This fact, he said, causes him to fear that a concerted effort may be made to get the deadline changed when the legislature meets again.

(Monroe County commissioners have started work on their equalization and reassessment process. No exact date when the program will be ready to go into effect has been given as yet.)

Van Ness also told directors there is a possibility that the State may shift responsibility for financing schools back on local districts. Prime reason for this, he said, would be the fact that income from the sales tax is falling 20 to 25 million dollars below expectations.

The State association has been told that unless the tax is reenacted the Legislature will have to provide $303 million more to support State government, Van Ness said.

A current two-day meeting to study building standards for schools in Pennsylvania may enable school boards to erect buildings more economically, Van Ness said. A special committee surveying the requirements is slated to report their recommendations to Gov. Fine, he said.

The 1953 act limited school building construction to $425 million. Van Ness said at least $7 million more must be added.

The State School Directors Association has gone on record, Van Ness said, in favor of adding insubordination as a "cause for dismissal" of teachers under contract. He cited the 45 Philadelphia teachers who "hid behind the Fifth Amendment."

Van Ness said he has been told that teachers are going to drive for a $3,000 minimum salary with 12 increments of $200. He expressed a belief that such increases should be accompanied by increases in the cost of living.

Bowman Enters Plea To Theft; Second Young Man Implicated

GARRY BOWMAN, 18, Swiftwater, entered a guilty plea to a charge of larceny yesterday and a second youth was arrested as his accomplice.

Trooper Joe Mekuta, Mount Pocono sub-station, said the second youth was Ray Simpson, 18, formerly of East Stroudsburg, now living in Swiftwater.

Simpson has admitted taking part in at least three thefts with Bowman, the officer said.

Bowman was given a hearing on the larceny charge yesterday afternoon before Justice of the Peace Herbert G. Bonser, East Stroudsburg. Mekuta said. He entered a guilty plea and was taken back to Monroe County Jail in default of $500 bail.

At 6:30 p.m. yesterday, Simpson was arrested at his family's home in Swiftwater. He was taken to the jail and committed on a charge of larceny also.

Mekuta said Bowman and Simpson have confessed to thefts at the Max Blum used car lot on Route 209 west of Stroudsburg and at a second car lot on Route 611—the Wagner-Tashman service station—between Stroudsburg and Bartonsville.

Bowman was arrested Sunday morning on a charge of larceny involving theft of tires, a generator and bucket seats from Mick's garage in Mountaintown.

Mekuta said the two youths have also admitted taking a battery from Mick's during the afternoon of the previous day.

Simpson will be given a hearing this afternoon before J. P. Bonser, Officer Mekuta said.

Both youths have asked to be given the chance to enter pleas before the court as soon as possible, police said.

Auction Sale Of Diamond Earrings To Aid Blind Irene Van Why Rehabilitate Herself

AN ATTRACTIVE pair of diamond earrings, valued by local appraisers at about $125 will go on sale at absolute auction tonight at 8 p.m. at Hill Meadow Farm off Monroe Carbon Trail at Shafer's school, two miles from Stroudsburg.

Sale of jewelry at auction is not unusual, but the sale of these earrings is most unusual.

In the first place, every penny of the proceeds of the sale of the beautiful diamond earrings will go to the fund aiding Miss Irene Van Why, of Stroudsburg, who is blind.

When Miss Van Why's case aroused public support through a story carried in The Daily Record, the earrings arrived at the newspaper's office with an anonymous note urging they be sold and the proceeds used to help Miss Van Why rehabilitate herself.

Every effort to check the ownership, even to consultation with authorities, failed to locate the very generous individual or individuals who made this remarkable gesture in the worthy project to aid Miss Van Why.

Money and aid from many sources poured in to help Miss Van Why and continued to be collected by varied groups when Miss Van Why started making men's and women's belts to help herself and her family.

Wayne R. Posten, auctioneer who is conducting the Hill Meadow Farm sale for Fred P. Mering, the owner, was approached and he agreed to auction off the beautiful diamonds tonight at 8 p.m. without cost.

The earring auction is timely in its aid to Miss Van Why and fits perfectly the sale plans of Mr. Posten who is disposing of a large lot of unusual antiques ranging from old fashioned couter sleighs to a complete, old fashioned shoemaker's kit, trundle beds and ancient bells. The sale starts at 6 p.m.

Industry and Bloor Donors

Without any drum beating or the usual pattern of appeals, the American Red Cross bloodmobile comes to Monroe County tomorrow to take blood from donors in industry in this region.

One small announcement disclosed that the bloodmobile will be at the Elks Club, East Stroudsburg between 10 a.m. and 4 p.m., and that volunteer committees in industry have completed the task of signing up donors.

All this points to one thing. Industry—both management and labor—have obviously set up a business-like, efficient organization which has signed up a substantial number of donors.

That is not to say that "walk-ins" will not be welcomed.

What it means is that the men and women of industry, after accepting this vital responsibility, set out to get bona-fide pledges from their field for the bloodmobile visit.

The very lack of drum beating indicates they've done a successful job. Today the results of their work will be tested. If you have an inclination to help industry, be a "walk-in" between 10 a.m. and 4 p.m. today.

Another Big Hole

When President Eisenhower laid his new budget before Congress last January, he estimated the deficit for the 1954-1955 fiscal year, ending next June 30, at just under three billion dollars.

Congress cut the total appropriations by around $2,500,000,000.

On that basis, this year's spending and income should have been almost in balance—a primary goal of the Eisenhower Administration when it took office.

Instead, the Budget Bureau now estimates the 1954-1955 deficit will be $1,700,000,000.

How come? Mainly because tax collections will be down. And tax collections will be down because Congress, with the Administration's blessing, cut taxes even more than it cut appropriations.

The tax cuts, which will reduce the Government's income this year by an estimated $5,300,000,000, are nice to have. National defense spending is essential, and most of the non-defense spending may be useful.

But in using borrowed money to make possible the tax cuts and a stepped-up program of non-defense spending, the Administration is bucking two of its own basic policies—a balanced budget and a stable dollar. And the two go together.

The bigger the deficit the more inflationary it is—and the further away a balanced budget.

George Sokolsky Says...

Poland Puts Out Feelers For Alliance With France Based On Common Grounds

Poland has let out feelers to France for an alliance. On August 25, the Polish ambassador to France, Stanislaw Czerwinski, handed a note to the French government.

The note, which contained these paragraphs: "I have the honor to inform you that the Polish government has decided to put out feelers to the French government for an alliance based on common grounds."

The signing of a pact of friendship and mutual assistance between Poland and France would constitute a contribution to the all-European system of collective security, whose principles recently have been given in the proposals of the Soviet Government on Feb. 10, 1954, and in a note on July 24, 1954. By strengthening collective security in Europe, the Polish-French pact of friendship and mutual assistance would be in compliance with the principles of general security, as well as the basic ideology of the U. N. Charter."

Poland's proposal is specifically stated in the note:

"A—Not to take part in any coalitions, and not to sign any agreements which would be aimed against one of the signatories; "B—To consult each other every time an attack threatens from the revanchist forces of German militarism on one of the signatories;

"C—To support mutual efforts aimed at consolidating collective security in Europe and peaceful solution of the German problem; "D—To give immediate help to the partner which are attacked by German forces."

"E—To develop economical and cultural cooperation with the view to strengthening friendship between the two states;

"F—To implement all the obligations resulting from the pact and the U. N. Charter."

Poland and France have long been associated emotionally and politically. Warsaw has often been referred to as the Paris of the East and in many respects it used to be just that. Chopin and Paderewski were as French as they were Polish.

Poland has three times been divided among Russia, Germany (Prussia) and Austria; and a fourth time between Russia and Germany by the Stalin-Hitler Alliance. During each of these partitions, France was always associated with the idea of Polish freedom. Napoleon tried to reconstruct Poland into the Grand Duchy of Warsaw, which the congress of Vienna (1815) converted into the Kingdom of Poland with the Czar of Russia as its king. In 1830, when the Czar proposed to use Polish troops to suppress revolution in France and Belgium, the Polish people rebelled against the Russians—a revolution which collapsed and resulted in the Poles losing their constitutional rights.

During World War I, the Germans, in occupation of Poland, formed a separate Polish state of that part of Poland which was in Russian territory, but the Poles never became pro-German. Under the guidance of Ignace Paderewski, the Polish people labored to restore their country to independence, an ambition which they achieved at Versailles.

In 1924, at Locarno, France signed mutual defense treaties with Poland and Czechoslovakia which brought Poland into the Little Entente and which made France the protector of Poland against invasion by Germany. The Little Entente included Yugoslavia, Czechoslovakia, and Rumania. On September 1, 1939, during the Stalin-Hitler Alliance, Germany and Russia simultaneously invaded Poland. France and Great Britain immediately went to Poland's defense which produced World War II.

Poland could not have proposed the restoration of the former cordial relations with France without the consent of the Kremlin which is necessary for all satellite countries. Coming so soon after Geneva, it is obviously an attempt to wean France away from the United States. In fact, the Polish note frankly indicates as much:

"The happiness... (during the Entente) however was disturbed by the years that followed, when in Poland had to observe with great concern a matter difficult to believe and yet true: that the Hitlerite Wehrmacht is to be reborn in the Rhine, and with the help of France. Born in Washington, worked out in Bonn and Paris, the treaty on the European Army is directed against Eastern Europe and against Poland. It thus opens the possibility of something which never has happened before in history. Something unbelievable and absurd—the dragging of France into a policy of war against Eastern Europe, in alliance with Hitlerite generals who a dozen years ago subdued Warsaw and Paris."

Some brand new members of a hunting club were coming in from their first day's shooting. Unused to handling guns, the casualty list was rather formidable. One had his hand in a sling, another was hopping on one foot, a third looked like the drummer boy in the old Revolutionary War picture. "Cheer up, fellows," urged an old member. "Judging by the bulge in your bag, you're not coming back empty-handed anyhow!" The one who was carrying the bag declared wearily, "That's our hunting dog!"

He gives as other causes for the upset: (1) The summer stock shows in Maine were not up to snuff this season; (2) it was a reaction by Maine husbands and brothers against their women folk coming from the straw hat theaters and exclaiming "Oh, the hero was so strong and handsome!" (3) The potato business is in a decline due to the fact millions of American restaurants serve nothing but French fries; (4) there is a nationwide revolt against this by customers who think they should be able to get them hashed brown, boiled or mashed.

NBC's superdooper "Satins and Spurs" put on at a cost of from $250,000 to $300,000 seemed worth far less to us than that. Maybe it's just too much money to be pumped through one channel without clogging. Perhaps $100,000 in nickels rolled into the mails for Mr. and Mrs. Charles Deibel, of Michigan as a result of an appeal to "send this plucky pair a nickel," from Garry Moore after they had said that even in tough going they wanted to stand on their own feet. Two things can explain this flood of money: (1) The novelty of anybody holding such an old-fashioned American view touched millions; (2) the nickel is pretty useless today for any purpose except mailing.

Looking At Life

—by Erich Brandeis

Nature Destroys In One Flash All We've Wrought

Oh what fools we mortals be! How we boast about our wonderful inventiveness, our talents, our bigness. Some of us even call ourselves leaders of the world, masters of all we survey, rulers of the universe.

Then a little hurricane comes along and bang, where and what are we?

We had one of those hurricanes here in Connecticut, although in New England we don't call them hurricanes. We just call them gales. We leave the hurricanes to the people in Florida, in Texas, in Kansas. But these "gales" do just as much damage.

I was sitting in my easy chair, reading a book on how we had practically mastered the air. It also dealt with what our airforce could do to an enemy with the atomic bomb.

The electric light over my chair was going full blast in a very pretty reading lamp, the creation of some interior decorator who is considered very good.

My wife was looking at television. Out in the kitchen the coffee pot was boiling.

It was blowing outside and raining. "I hope this wind won't break down any of my flowers," my wife said to me. "I read about the hurricane in North Carolina and the damage it did down there."

"Oh, we don't have anything like that up here," I retorted with my usual superior way of dealing with those things.

The wind got worse. The rain got worse; I heard branches falling off the trees onto our roof.

The lights flickered. The television shimmered. Then—a few more flickers—and darkness.

No more light. No more television. No more coffee. No more water. No more anything.

I went to the telephone to call the light company. No telephone. Just as it always happens in cases like this, all the batteries in our flashlights had worn out from non-use and there wasn't a drop of kerosene in the house to light our one lamp.

My wife found two candles which we had used the previous Sunday when we had company for dinner just for "atmosphere." Now they were much more than atmosphere—they were life preservers.

Here, in one minute we had been demoted from masters of all we survey to a couple of helpless little mites, no more important than the wood tick which I had just taken off my skin.

For two days we were savages again.

In one minute nature can destroy everything man has ever wrought. In one minute nature—or shall I say God—can make such awful fools out of us that we shall never dare to stick our necks out again and say how important, how big, how smart we are.

And it is not only a hurricane or lightning that can teach us such awesome lessons.

Take that wonderful heart of yours with which, according to the poets, you love, you hate, you have all your emotions. Overtax it—and in one minute you can be a goner.

Think of that when you let those emotions of yours get away with you. Think of it when you get a little too conceited about—well, about yourself.

In other words, "ecce homo"—remember you are only human.

California Senate Seat Battle Is Now Toss-Up

(Robert S. Allen is on vacation. During his absence, his column is today written by a noted California editor and former Washington reporter and war correspondent, who analyzes the hot campaign for the Senate seat formerly held by Vice-President Nixon.)

By Edward Kennedy Assistant Publisher Monterey Peninsula Herald

Monterey, Calif.—With control of the Senate a major national issue this year, both parties are putting intensive efforts into the Kuchel-Yorty contest in California—a state where anything can happen.

The two rivals are seeking the seat to which Thomas H. Kuchel (pronounced Keechel), Republican was appointed by former Governor Earl Warren after Richard Nixon was elevated to Vice-President.

Kuchel's challenger is Representative Samuel Wm. Yorty, from the 26th District, a Democratic stronghold in Los Angeles. They are the same age—41. Both are Southern Californians.

Kuchel, former State Controller, has established a reputation in his two years in the Senate as a solid, hardworking and conscientious, if not brilliant, member of that chamber. He has generally supported the Eisenhower program. As a former Warren associate, Kuchel undoubtedly is heir to some of the massive non-partisan support which Warren enjoyed for so long.

Yorty, former member of the State Legislature, has been in the House for two terms. In 1952 he was re-elected by the largest majority ever given a California Representative. This, however, was perhaps less a gift of the voters than of the Republican Legislature. In redistricting the state after the 1950 census, the Legislature concentrated all the Democratic votes it could in the 500,000-population 26th District to make adjacent districts safer for Republicans.

James Roosevelt is running for the House in the district this year. Kuchel supporters are stressing that years ago Yorty was associated with various leftist organizations and was praised by pro-Communist newspapers for his espousal of liberal and labor causes. He has since taken a strong anti-Communist stand.

The efforts to pin a pink label on Yorty are not likely to produce a major issue in the campaign. Yorty is emphasizing his work in the House for a strong national defense, especially his leading role in the fight against cuts in air power.

Under the curious cross-filing provision of California's election laws, there has already been a preliminary test of strength between the two candidates. Both ran on the primary tickets of both parties.

Kuchel won the Republican nomination, 1,118,312 votes to 100,746 for Yorty.

Yorty won the Democratic nomination, 829,977 votes to 455,530 for Kuchel.

In other words, Kuchel got an 11-to-1 endorsement over Yorty in Kuchel's party, and Yorty, in his party, scored by less than 2-to-1 over Kuchel.

The combined votes cast in the two parties for the respective candidates were: Kuchel, 1,573,842; Yorty, 830,723.

There were, however, four other candidates in the primaries—two Democrats, one Republican and one Independent Progressive. If the votes cast for the Democrats are credited to Yorty on the assumption that they will go that way in the general election and the votes cast for the Republican are credited to Kuchel, the results are somewhat less unfavorable to Yorty—Kuchel, 1,406,536; Yorty, 1,203,172.

So on the basis of the primary results, Kuchel entered the general election with a substantial edge. In California, such a demonstration of strength is usually—but not always—a sign of what will happen in November.

But there are other factors. One is that the primary vote was light, only about half the registered voters participating. Another is that a greater percentage of registered Republicans than registered Democrats voted in the primaries.

Changes in sentiment since June, national issues, economic conditions this fall will count, as will the effectiveness of the campaigns of the nominees.

Kuchel seems so far to be holding the popularity he enjoyed in the primaries. That, of course, could be changed between now and November by what is perhaps the most important factor of all in California—the fact that the electorate is a mercurial one, capable of quick and often unpredictable switches.

Health Problem Of Alcohol

—by H. G. Heller

Alcoholism as one of society's major health problems is due for an expert airing at a public meeting to be held in St. Mathew's church school auditorium tonight at 8 p. m.

Sponsored by the local Alcoholics Anonymous group, the meeting will feature George W. Lovering of Scranton, Mr. Lovering is community organization representative for the Division of Alcoholism Studies and Rehabilitation, Department of Health.

Few people recall that Pennsylvania will soon set up an Alcoholism Study and Rehabilitation Center for Northeastern Pennsylvania near Scranton to serve this region.

The fact that alcoholism is recognized as the number three or four major health problem is sufficient reason for responsible citizens to feel they should make it their business to be on hand Tuesday night.

You should not misconstrue the intent of Alcoholics Anonymous so far as the subject of this meeting is concerned. The concern of AA is only with the "problem drinker", and takes no side on the subject of "social drinking."

Objective of AA is to attain the understanding of the problem of Alcoholism. If society, generally, understands that is a sickness or disease, not contracted deliberately by its victim, a great step forward will have been made.

Lovering, as a representative of Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, will explain exactly what has been and is being accomplished by the State in establishing clinics to diagnose, care for and rehabilitate alcoholics.

There is considerable room for education of the public on this subject.

Since it is a health matter, there should be more than the ordinary interest in the professional field of medicine, public health agency circles and the related agencies which are often called to pick up a problem resulting from alcoholism.

The AA is to be complimented for setting up this meeting.

Its value to the community will be measured by the response of the public tonight.

It is worthwhile to keep in mind that a full eight-point program dealing with state-wide and local level attacks on this problem will be outlined.

ROAD TESTS SHOW:

GULF'S COMPLETELY NEW AND DIFFERENT GASOLINE...

ACTUALLY MAKES CARS PERFORM BETTER THAN NEW...

AFTER 15,000 MILES!

NEW SUPER-REFINED GULF NO-NOX

HIGHER-THAN-NEW HORSEPOWER! BETTER-THAN-NEW ON GASOLINE MILEAGE! AND NOT A SINGLE TRACE OF CARBON KNOCK OR PRE-IGNITION AT ANY TIME—EVEN ON THE STEEPEST MOUNTAIN GRADES!

Instead of trying to fight trouble-making deposits with so-called "miracle-additives"—inside your engine—Gulf believes in preventing them from forming in the first place. That's why Gulf, in making new Super-Refined NO-NOX, refines out the carbon-forming, "dirty-burning tail-end"—more than a cupful in every gallon. Just look at the plates the Gulf scientist is holding in the unretouched photo above, and see what a difference Gulf super refining makes!

Now—Gulf refines out the "dirty-burning tail-end" of gasoline—the No. 1 troublemaker in high-compression engines. Result: a cleaner-burning super-fuel that gives you thousands of extra miles of full engine power . . . free from knock or pre-ignition.

Starting with your first tankful, this new, super-refined, super-powered fuel will give you these immediate and lasting benefits:

► More complete engine protection than the so-called "miracle-additive" gasolines. Why? Because Gulf refines out the "dirty-burning tail-end" of gasoline, the No. 1 troublemaker in high-compression engines—and then treats this new Super-Refined NO-NOX to give it a complete range of protective properties. It protects every part it touches against harmful deposits—carbon, rust, gum.

► Extra gas mileage. Why? Because new

NO-NOX is specially blended for the short-trip, stop-and-go driving you do most.

► No knock, no pre-ignition—even in today's super-compression engines. Why? Because the anti-knock power of new NO-NOX has been stepped up to an all-time high.

► Stall-proof smoothness—no more worries about carburetor icing in chilly weather, or vapor lock on warm days. Instant starts, too—and fast, fuel-saving warm-up.

That's why new Super-Refined Gulf NO-NOX gives you more power-with-protection than you've ever known.

Constitution Day Luncheon Of DAR Hears Dr. Edwards

The place of the Supreme Court in interpreting the Constitution of the United States to such present day problems as multiple divorce laws, racial discrimination by private persons, and freedom of expression balanced against self preservation against subversion was brought out in the Constitution Day Luncheon of the Jacob Stroud Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution.

The luncheon was held yesterday at the Penn-Stroud Hotel. The speaker was Dr. Richard A. Edwards, associate professor of Government and Law, of Lafayette College, and co-author of a coursebook for political science classes, "American Constitutional Law."

The problem of the authors of the Constitution, faced with drawing up a document explicit enough to guide the government of their day and flexible enough to apply to the unforeseeable future, would seem to have been satisfactorily solved, since that constitution has only been formally amended 22 times.

However, he pointed out, the present application of the Constitution owes much to interpretations in more than 5,000 decisions of the Supreme Court. That power of judicial review is not one explicit in the Constitution, he said, but a power that the Court has assumed through the years.

He paid tribute to the self-imposed discipline and the high standards of work which Supreme Court Justices have assumed, together with the responsibility. Though the Court has been in dispute at times, notably in the Dred-Scott decision, it's "balancing act" has been higher than either the executive or legislative branch, he said.

These decisions are a continuing responsibility with far-reaching consequences, he said. As an illustration, he cited the little noticed decision of 1920 regarding migratory birds, in which the Court decided that the Federal government can acquire, following a treaty, powers it did not possess before the treaty.

This "ramification by treaty" was what brought about the proposal of the Bricker Amendment, and which might give the Federal government the power to act on racial discrimination by private persons as a violation of the Human Rights Treaty.

Other decisions which may have to be decided by the Supreme Court, he listed as:

The power of the state to tax interstate business;

How far the power of extradition between states may be en-

The effect of "migratory divorces," as in the North Carolina decision where the state was considered to have the right to declare divorces from another state illegal within its boundaries;

Just Between Us

—By Bobby Westbrook

It was reassuring to discover there was a sun up behind those six-day clouds, but were we grateful? No. We started puffing like steam engines and yawning mightily yawns because it was so hot and stuffy.

Of course part of the discomfort might have come from staying all dressed up, girdles, stockings and all, for a full day of meetings. And part, of course, from eating over-well.

In any event, there was plenty to think about after we finally got home and got our shoes off. Black velvet hats—mostly trimmed with rhinestones. Bulky tweed suits—still a little hot and sticky. And, of course, good basic black dresses. That was the fashion report from the DAR luncheon.

The flowers on the tables, by the way, were all from the Hood's garden, and a colorful display they made, too.

Well, the DAR luncheon is the signal for the start of many activities, and we really will have to get those Fall and Winter clothes out. You know, it's a funny thing, but the expression "nothing to wear" is almost literally true this time of year.

I'm sure we wore clothes last winter—dresses and suits and hats and things—but somehow it's hard to remember what, and even harder to discover where you so painstakingly put them away. And they never look as well as you remembered them.

THE Wyckoff SHOPPER

Hello again! Vacations are wonderful, and I'm all in favor of them, but the best part of going away is coming back again to your family, your job, and the people who know your idiosyncrasies and like you just the same. I don't know how many folks have stopped me in the store, on the street, and at the radio station to say, "We were thinking of you last week, in all the miserable weather" . . . but it wasn't that way at all. The weather was beautiful for the most part, and I have a raw, heart-shaped burn on my neck, plus a few scattered spots of tan, to prove it. Even when it did look showery and drizzle for a few minutes, what of it? I had a vacation smile for an umbrella and wore one of the Weatherbe raincoats from Carrie Rusk's department. So did my traveling companion, Ruthie Walmer, of our stationery department.

Speaking of my Weatherbe, here's an interesting story. It is one of those all-purpose tweed numbers in gray-blue with a thread of gold running through the nubby black stripes. (Sounds horrid described that way, doesn't it? Well, it's really a very nice coat.) Well, Ruthie and I were strolling the Boardwalk down by Haddon Hall, when I glanced into the window of McKelvey's—a smart little store dealing mostly in imported wools, et cetera, and THERE was my coat—so startlingly real we wondered who had lifted it from our closet back at the Seaside. It just goes to prove what excellent taste Carrie has, and what up-to-the-minute styles we have right here at Wyckoff's. If someone had handed me an award of merit, I couldn't have felt any better about it.

What did we see in Atlantic City? Aside from the ocean beating out its heart upon the sands, and Esther Williams cavorting happily on-stage at the Steel Pier with husband Ben Gage, we saw very little you couldn't see right here on Main Street, Stroudsburg. We saw linen shops, jewelry shops, and gift shops having "end of the season" and fire sales. And in the windows, were exactly the same type of thing you see here at Wyckoff's, with many of the marked-down prices being identical with our original prices. We noticed this particularly on costume jewelry, children's clothes, towels, and such. And we saw Christmas cards being sold in many of the book stores. This made me chuckle. So many of our New York visitors have said, "Why do you sell Christmas things now?—it must be a small town idea." MAYBE . . . but if you doubt that Atlantic City was bristling with Christmas knick-knacks, you have only to search my luggage. I bought eight beautiful cards with Madonna reproductions to add to my ever-growing collection of some 600, no two alike.

What else did we see? Stroudsburg people. And when we mentioned our town to strangers it was amazing how many of them recognized the name "A. B. Wyckoff." I was proud to be able to say, "WE are Wyckoff employees" . . . it made me feel like one of the "gentlemen of distinction" from the ads.

As I said before, there's no place like home. I may be daffy over taffy, and my favorite theme song may be "Anchors Aweigh" (I mean "AWAY") but when it comes right down to it, there's no place like home . . . home, sorry!

Walter Bronner To Head Observance Of Dog Week

WALTER H. Bronner, president, 71 Ananionk St., East Stroudsburg, will head up this community's observance of National Dog Week, Sept. 19-25, it is announced by Raymond J. Hanfield, executive secretary of National Dog Week headquarters in New York City.

The 27th annual observance is sponsored by the National Dog Welfare Guild, Inc., a movement of non-profit character which attempts to make the dog more valuable to his owner and more acceptable to the nonowner. Ed (Toast of the Town) Sullivan, TV star and newspaper columnist, is the 1954 general chairman.

"Vigilant" is the theme for this year's observance. Created for use during "The Week" by artist Albert Staehle, the 1954 design is a dramatic picture of a Dalmatian and a fireman speeding to the scene of a fire.

In scores of communities the observance will have the participation of youth leaders, of Boy Scouts, Camp Fire Girls, Boys Clubs of America, National Recreation Association and Benevolent and Protective Order of the Elks organization. They will contribute their time and energy by heading up committees to plan and organize local observances featuring the responsibility of dog care and training in their character-building and citizenship program for young Americans.

The seven point objectives of National Dog Week include: 1. A good home for every dog. 2. Elimination of stray dogs from the streets. 3. Better informed dog owners. 4. Teach consideration for dogs and all animals. 5. Emphasize the dog's use as a companion, helper and home protector. 6. Secure fair laws for dogs and their owners. 7. Teach respect for the rights of non dog owners.

Eyes Of Any Dog Most Expressive

THE EYES of a dog—any dog—are about the most expressive of all that belongs to a dog. Of course all the friendly ones—and what dog isn't?—wag their tails as an expression of friendliness and good will, but those eyes look into your soul, because they are the soul of a dog. Having no other way of expressing his thoughts, the dog looks into your eyes with his and there is silent communion.

Dogs, Too, Have Calorie Problems

DOGS, NO LESS than their owners, have to watch their calories, writes Dr. M. L. Morris in The Journal of the American Veterinary Medical Association. To fill their energy requirements, they need an average daily intake of between 30 to 60 calories for each pound of body weight, depending on the composition and quality of the food and the breed. Growing dogs and dogs of active, nervous type require the highest volume of calories.

Harriman Is Confident Of Nomination

NEW YORK, Sept. 20 (AP)—Averell Harriman's supporters claimed tonight the Democratic state convention tomorrow will nominate him for governor, but Rep. Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr. refused to be counted out.

The balloting is scheduled for tomorrow night.

Harriman, backed by Tammany and other influential Democratic leaders, appeared to have the edge.

"It's Harriman on the first ballot," Democratic State Chairman Richard H. Balch said at a pre-convention news conference.

But Roosevelt, son of the late President, vowed he would win in "a very close contest" with "surprising" support from New York City to augment his upstate strength.

He said he would not accept the second place nomination for lieutenant governor.

Operating in offices a floor apart in the Biltmore Hotel, Harriman and Roosevelt tried to hold their lines or gain new support by contacting the 1,019 delegates as fast as they arrived.

ALL IN ONE WORLD was one of the central themes of yesterday's address by Dr. John Harvey Furbay (right) before Monroe and Pike county teachers. In photo with Furbay are Dr. Nathan Meyer and Mrs. Pauline Peterson, chief coordinators for State Teachers College who worked with county superintendents in setting up the 95th annual teachers institute.

Institute Speaker Sees Africa As Most Powerful Nation In World In 50 Years

AFRICA may be the richest, most powerful nation in the world 50 years from now, Dr. John Furbay predicted yesterday.

Furbay was the main speaker at the 95th annual teachers meeting at State Teachers College. His address was titled "Educational Implications of the Air Age."

When, and if, Africa reaches a position of prime importance as a continent, Furbay said, aviation will have been a major contributor to its development.

As proof of this assertion, Furbay pointed out to the "largest magnesium mine in the world," now located in a heavy jungle region in an unexplored and heretofore uninhabited section of "The Dark Continent."

"This mine, he said, lies more than 150 miles from the end of the railroad tracks. Heavy equipment, laborers and the mine's products have all been flown from the mine to the railroad, Furbay said, thus opening up a whole new area for civilization.

Another factor in Africa's development is its increasing population, Furbay continued. Africa today, he said, has become the symbol of new land to millions of the world's emigrants.

The continent, in the 1950s, is serving much the same purpose as did the U. S. in its pioneer days when millions of persons from Europe and Asia came to America.

"We are living in a new age diplomatically—the air age of diplomacy," he said. "Read the story of John Foster Dulles during the past year and a half. Where was he the other day—in Manila."

Furbay then traced Dulles' travels, by air, to the several conferences he has attended recently in London, Bonn and Denver.

Europe and the Orient came to American shores to find opportunity, Furbay said.

Dr. Furbay opened his address with a quote from Socrates in which the great Greek scholar referred to children of his age as "bad mannered and tyrannical" in their relationships with teachers.

The situation, he said, has changed very little in this respect and each century has brought a new generation about which the pessimists could cry "the world is going to pot."

"So far in history there have always been men who were as big as the problems of their day," he declared. He urged the teachers in his audience to approach their daily instruction with an optimistic view.

Pointing out that the word "teacher" originally meant a prophet, Furbay said: "A teacher—like a prophet—has to look into the future, measure the changes of his own time and study their effect on the world. Then he must prepare the child he teaches for the future he sees."

One of the greatest factors changing the world today, he said, is air travel. Aviation has narrowed the gulf between nations so that, today, it takes less time to travel across an ocean than it once took to ride a horse between two towns in Pennsylvania, he said.

As the borders are narrowed, the views of citizens in nations all over the world must, necessarily, be broadened, he continued. Today the "air age has produced the global concept," he added, so that it is necessary to think of all actions in terms of their effect upon all nations of the world.

In concluding his address Furbay, who is director of air world education for Trans-World Airlines, said:

"The other day, in Denver, a man from the Pentagon (Air Secretary Talbott) told us the air force has achieved 'global mobility' so that we are ready, at any moment, to strike at any target in the world."

Advances in aviation are not confined to any one nation, however, he noted, so that "if we can do it—they can too."

200 Teachers Attend Annual Institute Here

NEARLY 200 Monroe and Pike county teachers attended the 95th annual teachers institute at State Teachers College yesterday.

The meeting is held each year to give teachers an opportunity to hear new developments in their specialized fields and compare notes on teaching methods.

John C. Litts, Monroe County superintendent of schools; R. Lloyd Jones, Pike County superintendent, worked in cooperation with Teachers College personnel in setting the conference in motion.

Among college officials working on the institute were Mrs. Pauline Peterson, director of elementary education; Dr. Nathan Meyer, director of student teaching and placement; and Dr. Francis B. McGarry, head of the department of education.

Registration for the sessions was held at 8:30 a.m. in the campus training school. The program opened officially at 8:50 in the college auditorium with messages of welcome from both Litts and Jones and a brief devotional period by Dr. Joseph F. Noonan, president of the college.

Conference sessions for elementary teachers were held in the training school with consultants from various publishing companies discussing variations on the central theme: "Language Arts in Action."

Discussion in sections planned for secondary teachers was handled by teachers themselves. Reports and summaries were heard at general meetings after the individual sessions were completed.

In addition to the regular discussion groups, presided over by teachers from Monroe or Pike Counties, teachers of reading heard a special outline of reading instruction in secondary schools at 1:10 p.m. with Mrs. Melva Reid as chairman.

The speakers were Prof. Harry T. Hahn, director of the reading clinic at Lehigh University, and Philip Hilaire, Northeast Junior High School in Bethlehem.

Many teachers used their spare time between discussion sessions to visit the exhibits installed by more than two dozen publishing companies on both floors of the training school building.

Publisher's representatives handed out illustrated folders describing new textbooks for use in both elementary and secondary schools.

Featured speaker at the conference was Dr. John H. Furbay, director of global air world education for TWA. Dr. Furbay's address was heard at 2:40 p.m. He was introduced by Pike Superintendent Jones.

Democrat Says U.S. Has Not Won Initiative

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20 (AP)—Sen. Jackson (D-Wash.) said today the United States has lost the initiative in the cold war and that this may have the "silent effect" of blighting Republican hopes for victory in the Nov. 2 congressional elections.

Jackson talked to an informal news conference on his return from a campaign speaking tour. He said he found that "the people aren't talking much" about foreign policy in public, but that in private conversations it becomes clear that vast numbers of them "are worried—very worried—about Western Europe and the Far East."

The Washington senator said he finds a growing belief that foreign policy as practiced in the Republican administration has been pretty much "a grand game of bluff" that causes concern among the voters.

"They had developed a feeling that more was to be expected of this administration, which had announced a policy of massive retaliation (against Communist aggression) and declared it had seized the initiative from the Soviets," he said.

"They expected bigger things. The Republicans after denouncing the Acheson foreign policy did not change it and did a poor job of implementing it."

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20 (AP)—Sen. Jackson (D-Wash.) said today the United States has lost the initiative in the cold war and that this may have the "silent effect" of blighting Republican hopes for victory in the Nov. 2 congressional elections.

Jackson talked to an informal news conference on his return from a campaign speaking tour. He said he found that "the people aren't talking much" about foreign policy in public, but that in private conversations it becomes clear that vast numbers of them "are worried—very worried—about Western Europe and the Far East."

The Washington senator said he finds a growing belief that foreign policy as practiced in the Republican administration has been pretty much "a grand game of bluff" that causes concern among the voters.

"They had developed a feeling that more was to be expected of this administration, which had announced a policy of massive retaliation (against Communist aggression) and declared it had seized the initiative from the Soviets," he said.

"They expected bigger things. The Republicans after denouncing the Acheson foreign policy did not change it and did a poor job of implementing it."

Back from a speaking tour into Illinois, Ohio, New Jersey and North Carolina, Jackson said "foreign policy may wind up as the big issue," dwarfing interest even in what he termed "bread and butter domestic economic issues."

He expected bigger things. The Republicans after denouncing the Acheson foreign policy did not change it and did a poor job of implementing it.
